“WHEREFORE, in light of the foregoing considerations, the Petition for Review is DISMISSED for lack of jurisdiction.

The dispositive portion of the assailed Resolution² reads:

“WHEREFORE, premises considered, petitioner’s Motion for Reconsideration (of the Decision dated 15 February 2022) filed on March 10, 2022, is DENIED for lack of merit.

Accordingly, the Decision of the Court in the above-captioned case dated February 15, 2022, is hereby AFFIRMED.

THE PARTIES

Petitioner Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) is a government instrumentality created by virtue of Republic Act (RA) No. 7653, with principal office at A. Mabini corner P. Ocampo Streets, Malate, Manila. It is registered as a taxpayer with Taxpayer Identification Number 000-354-790, and may be served with notices, orders, and processes through its Office of the General Counsel and Legal Services.³

Respondent is the Commissioner of Internal Revenue of the Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR), acting through the Revenue District Officer of RDO No. 23B, Cabanatuan City, Nueva Ecija. It may be served with notices and legal processes at Room 703, Litigation Division, Bureau of Internal Revenue, BIR National Office, BIR Road, Diliman, Quezon City.⁴

THE FACTS

The facts as stated in the assailed Decision⁵ are as follows:

“Sometime in 1998, the Rural Bank of San Miguel (RBSM) obtained an emergency loan from petitioner⁶ and executed several ‘Promissory Notes with Trust Receipt and Deed of Assignment’ covering several parcels of land. RSBM failed to pay its obligations under the emergency loan and as a result, the mortgaged properties were foreclosed and sold. Petitioner acquired one of the foreclosed properties located in Cabanatuan City as the highest bidder in the aforesaid extrajudicial foreclosure sale.

Petitioner allegedly paid capital gains tax (CGT) on the aforesaid transaction but the BIR assessed petitioner of documentary stamp tax (DST) as an additional tax on the foreclosure sale of the subject property.

Petitioner paid the deficiency DST through Credit Advice Ticket Number 13560 in the amount of Php24,684.92, with a notation 'Payment Under Protest,' on the contention that it is exempt from the payment of DST under the 1997 National Internal Revenue Code (NIRC), as amended.

Petitioner allegedly filed administrative claim for refund with the BIR's Revenue District Office (RDO) No. 23-B in Cabanatuan City embodied in letters dated June 18, 2018⁵ and April 10, 2019.

Due to the alleged inaction of respondent⁷ on its claim for refund of DST, petitioner filed a Petition for Review with this Court on July 5, 2019.”

In the Petition for Review⁸ before the Court in Division, petitioner prayed that the Court render judgment ordering respondent to refund to herein petitioner the total amount of Twenty-Four Thousand Six Hundred Eighty-Four Pesos and Ninety-Two Centavos (Php24,684.92), as DST paid for the property covered by Transfer Certificate of Title No. T-82886 located in Cabanatuan City legally acquired by petitioner.

On August 27, 2019, the petitioner filed his Answer,⁹ praying that the Petition for Review be denied for lack of merit.

The issue stated in the Joint Stipulations of Facts and Issues is “Whether BSP is entitled to the refund of DST in the amount of Twenty-Four Thousand Six Hundred Eighty-Four Pesos and Ninety-Two Centavos (P24,684.92).”¹⁰

On February 15, 2022, the Court in Division rendered the assailed Decision.

On March 10, 2022, petitioner filed a “Motion for Reconsideration (of the Decision dated 15 February 2022).”¹¹

On March 21, 2022, the Court in Division issued a Resolution¹² ordering respondent to file comment on petitioner’s “Motion for Reconsideration (of the Decision dated 15 February 2022)” within five (5) days from notice.

On April 5, 2022, the Court in Division received respondent’s “Opposition (Re: Motion for Reconsideration).”¹³

On May 24, 2022, the Court in Division issued a Resolution¹⁴ submitting for resolution the petitioner’s “Motion for Reconsideration (of the Decision dated 15 February 2022).”

On August 15, 2022, the Court in Division issued a Resolution¹⁵ denying for lack of merit the petitioner’s “Motion for Reconsideration (of the Decision dated 15 February 2022).”

Aggrieved, petitioner filed before the Court En Banc this Petition for Review¹⁶ on September 9, 2022.

On October 4, 2022, the Court En Banc issued a Resolution¹⁷ ordering respondent to file Comment, not a motion to dismiss, within ten (10) days from notice.

On November 4, 2022, the Judicial Records Division of this Court issued a Records Verification Report¹⁸ stating that respondent failed to file his Comment on the Petition for Review.

In the Resolution dated January 12, 2023,¹⁹ the Court En Banc deemed the instant case submitted for decision.

THE ARGUMENTS

Petitioner argues that the Court in Division has jurisdiction over its claim for refund of DST; that Presidential Decree (PD) No. 242 is not applicable to petitioner; that Republic Act (RA) No. 1125, as amended by RA No. 9282, a special and later law which specifically vests the Court with jurisdiction over claims for refund, should prevail over PD No. 242 and the 1987 Administrative Code; that petitioner is not covered by PD No. 242 because it is an independent central monetary authority vested with fiscal and administrative autonomy; that PD No. 242 applies between executive offices and agencies under the control and supervision of the President; that petitioner is entitled to refund because by express provision of Section 199 of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, petitioner is exempt from the documents and transactions related to the conduct of its business; that petitioner is entitled to refund of DST erroneously and illegally collected by the BIR pursuant to Section 299 of the NIRC of 1997, as amended; and that the dismissal of the Petition for Review before the Court in Division requiring petitioner to file an action anew with the Secretary of Justice runs counter to the principle of speedy disposition of cases.

THE RULING OF THE COURT EN BANC

The Court has jurisdiction to take cognizance of the Petition for Review.

Jurisdiction is defined as the power and authority of the courts to hear, try and decide cases.²⁰ It is conferred only by law and not by the consent or waiver upon a court which, otherwise, would have no jurisdiction over the subject matter of an action.²¹

As a corollary, it bears emphasis that this Court, being a court of special jurisdiction, can take cognizance only of matters that are clearly within its jurisdiction.²² In this connection, Section 7(a)(1) of RA No. 1125,²³ as amended by RA No. 9282,²⁴ provides as follows:

“SEC. 7. Jurisdiction. – The CTA shall exercise:

(a) Exclusive appellate jurisdiction to review by appeal, as herein provided: ✓

²⁰ Anama vs. Citibank, N.A. (formerly First National City Bank), G.R. No. 192048, December 13, 2017.

²¹ Commissioner of Internal Revenue vs. Silicon Philippines, Inc. (formerly Intel Philippines Manufacturing, Inc.), G.R. No. 169778, March 12, 2014.

²² Commissioner of Internal Revenue vs. U.Y. Domingo Jewellers, Inc., G.R. No. 221780, March 25, 2019.

²³ An Act Creating the Court of Tax Appeals

²⁴ An Act Expanding the Jurisdiction of the Court of Tax Appeals (CTA), Elevating its Rank to the Level of a Collegiate Court with Special Jurisdiction and Enlarging Its Membership, Amending for the Purpose Certain Sections of Republic Act No. 1125, as amended, Otherwise Known as the Law Creating the Court of Tax Appeals, and For Other Purposes.

- (1) Decisions of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in cases involving disputed assessments, refunds of internal revenue taxes, fees or other charges, penalties in relation thereto, or other matters arising under the National Internal Revenue Code or other laws administered by the Bureau of Internal Revenue;”
- (2) Inaction by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in cases involving disputed assessments, refunds of internal revenue taxes, fees or other charges, penalties in relations thereto, or other matters arising under the National Internal Revenue Code or other laws administered by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, where the National Internal Revenue Code provides a specific period of action, in which case the inaction shall be deemed a denial; xxx (Emphases added)

Based on the foregoing provision, the appellate jurisdiction of this Court is not limited to cases which involve decisions of respondent on matters relating to assessments or refunds. The second part of the provision covers other cases that arise out of the NIRC or related laws administered by the BIR. The wording of the provision is clear and simple.²⁵ In other words, the decisions of respondent which are appealable to this Court is not limited only to cases involving disputed assessments (which entails the filing of a protest to the FAN) or refund claims, but also includes “other matters” arising under the said laws.

In the case of Commissioner of Internal Revenue vs. Court of Tax Appeals (First Division), et al.,²⁶ the Supreme Court held that: Section 7 of RA 1125, as amended, is explicit that, except for local taxes, appeals from the decisions of quasi-judicial agencies on tax-related problems must be brought exclusively to the Court of Tax Appeals. In other words, within the judicial system, the law intends the Court of Tax Appeals to have exclusive jurisdiction to resolve all tax problems.

P.D. No. 242²⁷ prescribes the procedures in settling administratively the disputes between or among government offices, agencies and instrumentalities, including government-owned or controlled corporations (GOCC). It is a general law that deals with administrative settlement or adjudication of disputes, claims and controversies between or among government offices, agencies and instrumentalities, including government-owned or controlled corporations. Its coverage is comprehensive, encompassing all disputes, claims and controversies.

It has been incorporated in Executive Order No. 292, the Revised Administrative Code of the Philippines. On the other hand, RA No. 1125²⁸ is a special law dealing with a specific subject matter - the creation of the Court of Tax Appeals (CTA), which shall exercise exclusive appellate jurisdiction over the tax disputes and controversies enumerated therein. Following the rule on statutory construction involving a general and a special law, RA No. 1125, on the jurisdiction of the CTA, constitutes an exception to PD No. 242.

Even supposing PD No. 242 should prevail over RA No. 1125, as amended by RA No. 9282²⁹ and RA No. 9503,³⁰ the present dispute would still not be covered by PD No. 242. It was stated in PD No. 242 that only disputes and controversies solely between or among departments, bureaus, offices, agencies and instrumentalities of the National Government, including GOCC, shall be administratively settled or adjudicated by the Secretary of Justice, the Solicitor General, or the Government Corporate Counsel, depending on the issues and government agencies involved.

Petitioner was established as an independent central monetary authority that enjoys fiscal and administrative autonomy.³¹

Section 20, Article XII of the 1987 Constitution states:

"Section 20. The Congress shall establish an independent central monetary authority, the members of whose governing board must be natural-born Filipino citizens, of known probity, integrity, and patriotism, the majority of whom shall come from the private sector. They shall also be subject to such other qualifications and disabilities as may be prescribed by law. The authority shall provide policy direction in the areas of money, banking, and credit. It shall have supervision over the operations of banks and exercise such regulatory powers as may be provided by law over the operations of finance companies and other institutions performing similar functions.

Until the Congress otherwise provides, the Central Bank of the Philippines operating under existing laws, shall function as the central monetary authority." (Emphasis supplied)

Sections 1 and 2 of Republic Act (RA) No. 7653, otherwise known as The New Central Bank Act, provide:

²⁸ An Act Creating the Court of Tax Appeals.

²⁹ An Act Expanding the Jurisdiction of the Court of Tax Appeals (CTA), Elevating its Rank to the Level of a Collegiate Court with Special Jurisdiction and Enlarging its membership, Amending for the Purpose Certain Sections of Republic Act No. 1125, as amended, Otherwise Known as the Law Creating the Court of Tax Appeals, and For Other Purposes.

³⁰ An Act Enlarging the Organizational Structure of the Court of Tax Appeals, Amending for the Purpose Certain Sections of the Law Creating the Court of Tax Appeals, and For Other Purposes.

³¹ Section 1, RA No. 7653.

"Section 1. Declaration of Policy. The State shall maintain a central monetary authority that shall function and operate as an independent and accountable body corporate in the discharge of its mandated responsibilities concerning money, banking and credit. In line with this policy, and considering its unique functions and responsibilities, the central monetary authority established under this Act, while being a government-owned corporation, shall enjoy fiscal and administrative autonomy.

Section 2. Creation of the Bangko Sentral - There is hereby established an independent central monetary authority, which shall be a body corporate known as the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas, hereafter referred to as the Bangko Sentral.

In *Power Sector Assets and Liabilities Management Corporation vs. Commissioner of Internal Revenue*³² (PSALM case), the Supreme Court states the applicability of the procedure in the resolution of disputes with regard to government offices or agencies under the Executive Branch. The Supreme Court said:

"Xxx, contrary to the ruling of the Court of Appeals, we find that the DOJ is vested by law with jurisdiction over this case. This case involves a dispute between PSALM and NPC, which are both wholly government-owned corporations, and the BIR, a government office, over the imposition of VAT on the sale of the two power plants. There is no question that original jurisdiction is with the CIR, who issues the preliminary and the final tax assessments. However, if the government entity disputes the tax assessment, the dispute is already between the BIR (represented by the CIR) and another government entity. In this case, the petitioner PSALM. Under Presidential Decree No. 242 (PD 242), all disputes and claims solely between government agencies and offices, including government-owned or controlled corporations, shall be administratively settled or adjudicated by the Secretary of Justice, the Solicitor General, or the Government Corporate Counsel, depending on the issues and government agencies involved.

The law is clear and covers "all disputes, claims and controversies solely between or among the departments, bureaus, offices, agencies and instrumentalities of the National Government, including constitutional offices or agencies arising from the interpretation and application of statutes, contracts or agreements." When the law says "all disputes, claims and controversies solely" among government agencies, the law means all, without exception. Only those cases already pending in court at the time of the effectivity of PD 242 are not covered by the law.

The purpose of PD 242 is to provide for a speedy and efficient administrative settlement or adjudication of disputes between government offices or agencies under the Executive branch, as well as to filter cases to lessen the clogged dockets of the courts. xxx xxx xxx

PD 242 is only applicable to disputes, claims, and controversies solely between or among the departments, bureaus, offices, agencies and instrumentalities of the National Government, including government-owned or controlled corporations, and where no private party is involved. In other words, PD 242 will only apply when all the parties involved are purely government offices and government-owned or controlled corporations. Xxx Since this case is a dispute solely between PSALM and NPC, both government-owned and controlled corporations, and the BIR, a National Government office, PD 242 clearly applies and the Secretary of Justice has jurisdiction over this case.

It is only proper that intra-governmental disputes be settled administratively since the opposing government offices, agencies and instrumentalities are all under the President's executive control and supervision.

xxx xxx xxx

Furthermore, it should be noted that the 1997 NIRC is a general law governing the imposition of national internal revenue taxes, fees, and charges. On the other hand, PD 242 is a special law that applies only to disputes involving solely government offices, agencies, or instrumentalities.

Thus, even if the 1997 NIRC, a general statute, is a later act, PD 242, which is a special law, will still prevail and is treated as an exception to the terms of the 1997 NIRC with regard solely to intra-governmental disputes." xxx (Emphasis supplied)

Although respondent is under the President's executive control and supervision, petitioner is neither under the Executive Branch of the government nor under the President's supervision and control to fall within the realm of P.D. No. 242. Moreover, the dispute between the parties in this case, which involves a claim for refund of documentary stamp tax, is not governed by PD 242.

Considering that under Section 7(a)(2) of Republic Act (RA) No. 1125, as amended, this Court is vested with exclusive appellate jurisdiction to review by appeal the inaction of respondent in cases involving refunds of internal revenue taxes, thus, this Court has jurisdiction to take cognizance of the instant Petition for Review.

WHEREFORE, premises considered, the instant Petition for Review is GRANTED. The Decision dated February 15, 2022 and the Resolution dated August 15, 2022 issued by the Court in Division is REVERSED and SET ASIDE.

Accordingly, let this case be remanded to the Court in Division for the determination of the refundable amount.

SO ORDERED.

DISSENTING OPINION

FERRER-FLORES, J.:

With due respect to our esteemed colleague, Honorable Associate Justice Ma. Belen Ringpis-Liban, I am constrained to withhold my assent on the ponencia.

In the Decision penned by Honorable Associate Justice Ringpis-Liban, it was held that the Court of Tax Appeals (CTA) has jurisdiction to take cognizance over the Petition for Review. It was pointed out that Republic Act (R.A.) No. 1125,¹ being the special law, prevails over Presidential Decree (P.D.) No. 242,² a general law. Accordingly, following the rule on statutory construction involving a general and a special law, R.A. No. 1125, on the jurisdiction of the CTA, constitutes an exception to P.D. No. 242.

I respectfully disagree.

In the case of The Department of Energy vs. Court of Tax Appeals,³ the Supreme Court, citing *Power Sector Assets and Liabilities Management Corporation vs. Commissioner of Internal Revenue*⁴ (PSALM case), has categorically ruled to the contrary, to wit:

Special Laws prevail over General Laws

P.D. No. 242, as incorporated in the Revised Administrative Code in Chapter 14, Book IV, should prevail as against laws defining the general jurisdiction of the CTA, i.e., R.A. No. 1125, as amended, and the NIRC. This is consistent with the fundamental rule that special laws prevail over general laws. P.D. No. 242 deals specifically with the resolution of disputes, claims, and controversies where the parties involved are the various departments, bureaus, offices, agencies, and instrumentalities of the government. P.D. No. 242 should be read as an exception to the general rule set in R.A. No. 1125 and the NIRC that the CTA has jurisdiction over tax disputes involving laws administered by the BIR.

The Court has defined a general law as "a law which applies to all of the people of the state or to all of a particular class of persons in the state, with equal force and obligation." In Valera v. Tuason, et al., it was also described as "one which embraces a class of subjects or places and does not omit any subject or place naturally belonging to such class." On the other hand, a special law is one which "applies to particular individuals in the state or to a particular section or portion of the state only" and which "relates to particular persons or things of a class." As the Court has consistently held, where there are two laws which appear to apply to the same subject and where one law is general and the other special, the law specially designed for the particular subject must prevail over the other. Stated more simply, the special law prevails over the general law. Generalia specialibus non derogant.

Here, the NIRC and R.A. No. 1125, and specifically their provisions on the jurisdiction of the CTA over tax disputes involving tax laws enforced by the BIR, should be read as general provisions governing the settlement of disputes involving tax claims. These provisions apply to the resolution of this general class of tax cases involving all persons, without exception. Stated more simply, they apply with equal force to all persons involved in disputes pertaining to all tax claims arising from all tax laws being implemented by the BIR.

In clear contrast, P.D. No. 242, as now embodied in the Revised Administrative Code, applies only to particular persons involved in a uniquely specific category of cases — disputes, claims, and controversies where all the parties are government entities. The Court's ruling in City of Manila v. Teotico, Bagatsing v. Ramirez, and other similar cases, dictate that an interpretation of P.D. No. 242 as a special law that functions as an exception to the general rule on the jurisdiction of courts, such as the CTA, to resolve disputes. Where the dispute involves government entities on opposing sides, P.D. No. 242, as embodied in the Revised Administrative Code, determines, in the first instance, the mode of dispute resolution.

⁴ G.R. No. 198146, August 8, 2017.

In ruling that P.D. No. 242 is the special law (as opposed to R.A. No. 1125 and the NIRC), the Court also takes into consideration the rationale for the enactment of P.D. No. 242. The First and Second Whereas Clauses of P.D. No. 242 provide:

"WHEREAS, it is necessary in the public interest to provide for the administrative settlement or adjudication of disputes, claims and controversies between or among government offices, agencies and instrumentalities, including government-owned or controlled corporations, to avoid litigation in court where government lawyers appear for such litigants to espouse and protect their respective interests although, in the ultimate analysis, there is but one real party in interest the Government itself in such litigations;

WHEREAS, court cases involving the said government entities and instrumentalities have needlessly contributed to the clogged dockets of the courts, aside from dissipating or wasting the time and energies not only of the courts but also of the government lawyers and the considerable expenses incurred in the filing and prosecution of judicial actions"; (emphasis supplied)

In the performance of our Constitutional duty to interpret the laws, it is essential that the Court do so with due regard to legislative intent. Given the purpose animating the enactment of P.D. No. 242, the Court must read it as a special law intended to govern the resolution of disputes involving government agencies. It is only by reading P.D. No. 242 as an exception to the general rule governing the jurisdiction of the CTA over tax disputes that the Court will be able to respect and uphold the legislative intent to submit all inter-governmental disputes to the jurisdiction of the Executive in the pursuit of avoiding litigation in cases where the opposing parties ultimately represent the government as the sole real party-in-interest. A contrary reading of P.D. No. 242 would defeat the purpose for its enactment as an entire class of cases (i.e., tax cases under the jurisdiction of the CTA) would operate outside its ambit, thereby significantly limiting the Government's ability to resolve internal disputes and further clogging the CTA's dockets.

In Philippine National Oil Company v. Court of Appeals (PNOC v. CA), the Court found that R.A. No. 1125 should be read as an exception to P.D. No. 242. However, it cannot be overemphasized that PNOC v. CA did not involve the actual application of the P.D. No. 242 as we ultimately ruled in that case that P.D. No. 242 does not govern the dispute considering that it involved a private party and was therefore not a case involving solely the government. Given this, our elucidations on R.A. No. 1125 and P.D. No. 242 in that case was obiter. As for Commissioner of Internal Revenue v. Secretary of Justice and the Philippine Amusement and Gaming Corporation, which relied on our obiter in PNOC, the case was decided prior to PSALM, and it was only in PSALM that the Court made the definitive and binding pronouncement that P.D. No. 242 is a special law and must be read as a carve out from the general jurisdiction of the

CTA over tax cases. PSALM operates as stare decisis in this case and must, therefore, govern our ruling. (Emphasis supplied)

Based on the foregoing, with the promulgation of the PSALM case on August 8, 2017, P.D. No. 242 shall be read as the exception to the general jurisdiction of the CTA over tax cases. Considering that the original Petition for Review was filed by the BSP on July 5, 2019, after the promulgation of the PSALM case, P.D. No. 242 should be considered as the prevailing law in determining whether the CTA has jurisdiction over the dispute.

Nonetheless, in the ponencia, it was held that, even supposing P.D. No. 242 should prevail over R.A. No. 1125, as amended, the present dispute would still not be covered by P.D. No. 242 since the BSP is neither under the Executive Branch of the government nor under the President's supervision and control to fall within the realm of P.D. No. 242.

On this point, I respectfully beg to differ.

Section 1 of P.D. No. 242 provides:

SECTION 1. Provisions of law to the contrary notwithstanding, all disputes, claims and controversies solely between or among the departments, bureaus, offices, agencies and instrumentalities of the National Government, including government-owned or controlled corporations but excluding constitutional offices or agencies, arising from the interpretation and application of statutes, contracts or agreements, shall henceforth be administratively settled or adjudicated as provided hereinafter: Provided, That this shall not apply to cases already pending in court at the time of the effectivity of this decree.
(Emphasis supplied)

In order for P.D. No. 242 to apply, it is necessary to ascertain the legal status of the parties to the dispute to determine whether the same is within the coverage of said law.

There is no dispute that the Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR) is among those enumerated in P.D. No. 242. The issue lies with the legal status of BSP as a government entity.

After evaluation of the facts, applicable laws, and jurisprudence, it is my position that the BSP is a government instrumentality.

Section 2(10) of the Introductory Provisions of Executive Order (E.O.) No. 292, otherwise known as the Administrative Code of 1987, defines a government instrumentality as follows:

SECTION 2. General Terms Defined. — Unless the specific words of the text, or the context as a whole, or a particular statute, shall require a different meaning:

xxx

(10) "Instrumentality" refers to any agency of the National Government, not integrated within the department framework vested within special functions or jurisdiction by law, endowed with some if not all corporate powers, administering special funds, and enjoying operational autonomy, usually through a charter. This term includes regulatory agencies, chartered institutions and government-owned or controlled corporations. (Emphasis supplied)

In relation thereto, Sections 1 and 5 of R.A. No. 7653 (The New Central Bank Act) provide as follows:

SECTION 1. Declaration of Policy. - The State shall maintain a central monetary authority that shall function and operate as an independent and accountable body corporate in the discharge of its mandated responsibilities concerning money, banking and credit. In line with this policy, and considering its unique functions and responsibilities, the central monetary authority established under this Act, while being a government-owned corporation, shall enjoy fiscal and administrative autonomy.

SECTION 5. Corporate Powers. — The Bangko Sentral is hereby authorized to adopt, alter, and use a corporate seal which shall be judicially noticed; to enter into contracts; to lease or own real and personal property, and to sell or otherwise dispose of the same; to sue and be sued; and otherwise to do and perform any and all things that may be necessary or proper to carry out the purposes of this Act.

The Bangko Sentral may acquire and hold such assets and incur such liabilities in connection with its operations authorized by the provisions of this Act, or as are essential to the proper conduct of such operations.

The Bangko Sentral may compromise, condone or release, in whole or in part, any claim of or settled liability to the Bangko Sentral, regardless of the amount involved, under such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the Monetary Board to protect the interests of the Bangko Sentral. (Emphasis supplied)

Based on the foregoing, the BSP, granted with corporate powers, functions and operates as an independent and accountable body corporate. Moreover, while it is a government-owned corporation, the BSP enjoys fiscal and administrative autonomy. The BSP, thus, falls within the definition of an instrumentality under the Administrative Code of 1987. m

In Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas vs. Commission on Audit (BSP case),⁵ the Supreme Court shed some light as to the legal status of the BSP and categorically ruled that the BSP is not a GOCC, applying the parameters set in the case of Manila International Airport Authority (MIAA) vs. Court of Appeals,⁶ promulgated on July 20, 2006, (2006 MIAA case), viz:

In the 2006 case of Manila International Airport Authority v. Court of Appeals, the Court had the occasion to interpret and apply the foregoing definition in the Administrative Code when it was confronted with the question of whether Manila International Airport Authority (MIAA) is a GOCC and is thus not exempt from real estate tax. In resolving the issue, the Court explained that a GOCC must be organized as a stock or non-stock corporation, as expressly stated in the definition. It further explained that under the Corporation Code, to be classified as a stock corporation, an entity must have capital stock divided into shares and must be authorized to distribute dividends and allotments of surplus and profits to its stockholders. On the other hand, to be classified as a non-stock corporation, it must have members and must not distribute any part of its income to said members. Since MIAA is not organized as a stock or non-stock corporation, the Court held that it is not a GOCC:

xxx

Applying the parameters in Manila International Airport Authority v. Court of Appeals, the Court has since disqualified many entities from being classified as GOCCs, including the Philippine Fisheries Development Authority, the Philippine Ports Authority, the Government Service Insurance System, the Philippine Reclamation Authority, the Manila Economic & Cultural Office, the Mactan-Cebu International Airport Authority, the Bases Conversion and Development Authority, the Executive Committee of the Metro Manila Film Festival, and the Light Rail Transit Authority.

After applying the same parameters, we find that the BSP does not qualify as a GOCC as defined under the Administrative Code and RA 7656.

First, the BSP is not organized as a stock corporation. The capitalization of the BSP is provided under Section 2 of RA 7653, as amended by RA 11211:

xxx

Thus, while the BSP has capital under Section 2 of the BSP Charter, it does not have capital stock or share capital. Further, its capital is not divided into shares of stocks. There are no stockholders or voting shares. Hence, the BSP cannot be classified as a stock corporation.

Second, the BSP is not a non-stock corporation. It does not have members. Even assuming that the government may be considered as the sole member of the BSP, this will not make the BSP a non-stock corporation because the BSP Charter mandates it to remit 50% of its net profits to the National Treasury, in conflict with the provision that non-stock corporations do not distribute any part of their income to their members.

XXX

In fine, following the definition of a GOCC under the law and in line with settled jurisprudence, the BSP does not qualify as a GOCC as defined under RA 7656. Incidentally, this was also the impression of the Court in Manila International Airport Authority v. Court of Appeals.

In the BSP case, the Supreme Court further expounded that the records of the Constitutional Commission and the legislative deliberations on R.A. No. 7653 reveal the intent to exclude the BSP from the general category of GOCCs, specifically, that the BSP “is owned by the government, but not quite government-owned or -controlled corporation as defined now by various law[s]”. Nonetheless, the above recent jurisprudence did not categorically rule on the legal status of the BSP but only held that it is not a GOCC.

Referring now to the 2006 MIAA case,⁷ it is noted that the Supreme Court, after concluding that MIAA is not a GOCC, proceeded to elucidate on the legal status of MIAA within the National Government, to wit:

Since MIAA is neither a stock nor a non-stock corporation, MIAA does not qualify as a government-owned or controlled corporation. What then is the legal status of MIAA within the National Government?

MIAA is a government instrumentality vested with corporate powers to perform efficiently its governmental functions. MIAA is like any other government instrumentality, the only difference is that MIAA is vested with corporate powers. Section 2(10) of the Introductory Provisions of the Administrative Code defines a government “instrumentality” as follows:

SEC. 2. General Terms Defined. — x x x

(10) Instrumentality refers to any agency of the National Government, not integrated within the department framework, vested with special functions or jurisdiction by law, endowed with some if not all corporate powers, administering special funds, and enjoying operational autonomy, usually through a charter. x x x (Emphasis supplied)

When the law vests in a government instrumentality corporate powers, the instrumentality does not become a corporation. Unless the government instrumentality is organized as a stock or non-stock corporation, it remains a government instrumentality exercising not only governmental but also corporate powers. Thus, MIAA exercises the governmental powers of eminent domain, police authority and the levying of fees and charges. At the same time, MIAA exercises “all the powers of a corporation under the Corporation Law, insofar as these powers are not inconsistent with the provisions of this Executive Order.” ↗

⁷ See note 6.

Likewise, when the law makes a government instrumentality operationally autonomous, the instrumentality remains part of the National Government machinery although not integrated with the department framework. The MIAA Charter expressly states that transforming MIAA into a 'separate and autonomous body' will make its operation more 'financially viable.'

In the said case, the Supreme Court ruled that the MIAA is a government instrumentality vested with corporate powers to perform efficiently its governmental functions. However, even if it is operationally autonomous, it still remains part of the National Government machinery.

Similarly, the BSP is a government instrumentality which is granted with corporate powers⁸ and is enjoying fiscal and administrative autonomy.⁹ Nonetheless, even if it enjoys fiscal and administrative autonomy, the BSP, as an instrumentality, still remains part of the National Government machinery, as also aptly pointed out by the Honorable Supreme Court Justice Amy Lazaro-Javier in her Separate Concurring Opinion in the BSP case.

Thus, the BSP is a government instrumentality. In fact, in its petition, the BSP refers to itself as "a governmental instrumentality existing by virtue of R.A. No. 7653".¹⁰

Considering all the foregoing, since the instant case involves the BSP, a government instrumentality forming part of the National Government, and the BIR, another government agency, it is respectfully submitted that the CTA has no jurisdiction over the instant case.

All told, I VOTE to DISMISS the Petition for Review filed by the BSP for lack of merit.
