This is a petition to review the decision of respondent dated September 28, 1984 denying petitioner's request to cancel and withdraw the deficiency sales tax assessment issued amounting to P342,357.97.

Petitioner, 3M Philippines, Inc., is a domestic corporation wholly owned by Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co., a non-resident foreign corporation located at St. Paul, Minnesota, U.S.A., with offices at 3M House, Guadalupe, Makati, Metro Manila. It is engaged in the manufacture of adhesive tapes and other articles such as abrasives, scouring materials and reflectors using the brand of its parent company, from which the raw materials used in the production were imported. These imported materials are gigantic in sizes contained in big rolls, hereinafter described as "jumbo" materials (Exhibit "F", "G", and "H", pp. 40-41, CTA records). The imported "jumbo" materials are cut into small sizes and packed for resale to consumers (Exhibit "F-1", "G-1", and "H-1", pp. 40-41, CTA records).

On August 30, 1976, respondent assessed petitioner the sum of P342,357.97, representing deficiency sales tax for the period from September 1, 1973 to October 31, 1974, including surcharge and interest, computed as follows: (p. 149, BIR records)

Amount subject to deficiency sales tax per investigation	P3,193,723.40
7% sales tax due thereon	P 223,560.64
25% surcharge for late payment	55,890.16
	P 279,450.80
14% interest per annum from January 21, 1975 to September 30, 1976	62,907.17
TOTAL AMOUNT DUE	P 342,357.97

Petitioner received the assessment letter on October 11, 1976 and protested the same in its letter dated October 28, 1976 which respondent received on November 3, 1976.

On December 17, 1984, petitioner received the decision of respondent dated September 28, 1984 denying its request to cancel and withdraw the deficiency sales tax assessment notice issued to petitioner.

Hence, the present petition for review.

The issue herein raised is whether or not there was an overstatement in the cost of "jumbo" raw materials in the amount of P2,652,875.59 that would result to double deduction if considered deductible from the gross selling price.

Respondent in his special and affirmative defenses contend that the cost of these imported "jumbo" materials were already deducted for sales tax purposes in accordance with section 186 in relation to Section 194(x) both of the 1974 Tax Code.

The BIR examiners disclosed as per its investigation that the raw materials deducted from the gross selling price was overstated by P2,652,875.59. Consequently, the sales tax separately billed to its customers, amounting to P540,847.81, was erroneously computed, therefore, the same should not have been deducted from the gross selling price by virtue of BIR General Circular No. 431. Thus, the total amount of P3,193,723.40 should not have been deducted from the gross selling price. For a more picturesque view, the BIR presented its proposed assessment for the fiscal year ended October 31, 1974, as follows: (p. 41, BIR records)

Computation of deficiency sales tax:

Raw Materials (R/M) and Packaging Supplies (P/S)

Petitioner, on the other hand, maintains that, as a manufacturer, it is entitled to deduct the cost of raw materials, likewise subject to tax, from the gross selling price or gross value in money of the manufactured goods pursuant to Section 186 and 187 in relation to Section 194(x) of the 1974 Tax Code.

Section 194(x) defines a manufacturer as to include every person who by physical or chemical process alters the quality of any raw material or manufactured or partially manufactured product so as to reduce it to marketable shape or prepare it for any of the uses of industry.

In its arduousness to refute the assessment, petitioner claims that pursuant to a directive of its parent company, the "jumbo" materials received therefrom, after payment of the corresponding customs duties and taxes and upon release from customs custody, are recorded in its books of accounts as purchases of finished goods inventory - specified as "jumbo" materials. They do not form part of the materials of other locally manufactured finished goods but instead form part of locally converted goods, by virtue of the fact that they are cut into small sizes and by the use of other manufacturing process which changes their forms, whose domestic sales are also subjected to the 7% manufacturer's sales tax (Exhibit "E", p. 39, CTA records, underscoring ours).

It is noteworthy to point out that in computing the sales tax on locally converted goods, petitioner deducts the cost of the "jumbos", other tax paid raw materials, and packaging materials (p. 50, CTA records).

After a careful review of the record, We have found no reason at all to disturb the findings of the BIR examiners. The issue is not one of deductibility but rather one of overstatement in the cost of raw materials deducted in the gross sales of its manufacturing operations. We therefore find petitioner's allegations unmeritorious.

In fact, the cost accountant of petitioner revealed during trial that the sales tax liability for the year ended October 31, 1974 was computed on the basis of the gross sales less the sales returns, arriving at the net sales minus the cost of deductible materials which represents the cost of locally manufactured items and the cost of locally converted items (underscoring supplied). The balance is taxable net sales out of which the 7% sales tax is based (p. 17, t.s.n., July 16, 1985). We stress that the cost of locally converted goods have already been considered as a deduction in computing the sales tax liability of petitioner. Therefore, to uphold petitioner's claim that the same should be deducted from the gross selling price of its manufacturing operations would entail double deduction. It would be absurd if such would be allowed.

Petitioner, in support of his claim, submitted the following revised Statement of Cost of Goods Sold for Trading only and a Statement of Cost of Goods Manufactured for the year ended October 31, 1974, as compared with the original statements submitted, to wit:

In the Revised Statement of Cost of Goods Sold (Trading Only), petitioner deducted the cost of sales of locally converted items amounting to P2,464,700.44, computed as follows: (p. 134, BIR records)

and transferred it to the Statement of Cost of Goods Manufactured by adding it to the cost of raw materials and packaging materials used on the ground that the same should be deducted as such considering that these "jumbo" materials have undergone a manufacturing process and were not actually sold as is.

However, the findings of the BIR examiners, to which We adhere, showed that the cost of imported finished goods ("jumbo" materials) were already included in the original statement of Cost of Goods Manufactured, this finds support upon examination of the purchases of imported raw materials and packaging materials in relation to the advance sales tax paid as shown below: (p. 78, BIR records)

Add: 25% mark-up	495,866.10
Total landed cost of imported finished goods	P2,479,330.53

The contention* of petitioner that the difference representing imported finished goods were actually in-transit raw materials is not convincing since nothing is shown in the records to prove that such were actually in-transit raw materials. No evidence was adduced by petitioner to rebut the findings of respondent.

Based on the foregoing, We, therefore, see no valid reason to set aside the decision of respondent dated September 28, 1984.

WHEREFORE, the decision appealed from is hereby affirmed, and petitioner 3M Philippines, Inc. is ordered to pay respondent, Commissioner of Internal Revenue the sum of P342,357.97 representing deficiency sales tax for the period from September 1, 1973 to October 31, 1974, including surcharge and interest, at petitioner's costs.

SO ORDERED.
